

Meet the Author

Several key reports have recently been published looking at the critical issues around employment, education and training facing South Australia now and into the future.

But how do we translate this research into effective action, to achieve the change we clearly need?

Here's a chance to meet with the people behind some of these documents — including Michael O'Brien (Minister for Employment, Training and Further Education), Professor Ed Carson (UniSA), Grant Belchamber (Economic Development Board), and Gael Fraser (Training & Skills Commission)— and brainstorm ways to achieve positive change.
